

DOOR ACCESS SYSTEMS

Building access only granted to
proper individuals

PROSTHERE

A Michody Company

Door access systems ensure that building access is only granted to the proper individuals. Employees can be granted access to only the doors they need at the times they need them using a predefined set of access rules. Since entry is digitally assigned, there are no longer concerns about copying and passing out physical keys. Concerns over retrieving a key from a former employee are gone too. Simply remove them from the access control software, and they are locked out for good.

In addition to creating a more secure environment, door access systems give you a bird's eye view of what is going on in your building. Access logs show every time a door is unlocked and by who. Some card readers are also equipped with cameras so you can see a photo or short video of the person unlocking the door. This feature allows you to verify that the wrong individual did not improperly use an access card.

Access systems are compatible with electric bolt locks, magnetic locks, and electric strikes. Unlocking methods include NFC compatible access card, PIN code, and mobile unlock.
