Features Include:

Security cameras not only provide peace of mind, but they can help deter burglars, false legal claims, fraud, and vandalism. Using modern IP cameras, you can conveniently view recordings or live feeds right from your phone, tablet, or computer. And with reduced hard drive costs, storing the recordings long-term is affordable.

Thanks to the wide variety of camera and NVR (network video recorder) models available, there is a product to fit every security need. Cameras can be installed inside or outside, mounted on the wall or ceiling, and be stationary or PTZ (Pan/Tilt/Zoom). Features like Attention LED are designed to draw the eyes of passers-by, guaranteeing they know you have security in place. NVRs come in a variety of form factors, including rack-mounted, wall-mounted, and tabletop. Power redundancy paired with a UPS can keep your cameras up, running, and recording even during a power failure.

IP cameras use your existing network to transmit data seamlessly. And with PoE switches or injectors, no high-voltage electricity is needed, making installation simple and cost-effective.
